Democratic win is a 'bad omen'

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) - Vice President Gerald R. Ford says the Democratic victory in a special Michigan congressional election is a bad omen for the country and that continued Democratic victories could lead to a "legislative dictatorship."

"One party control is not good for America." Ford said after Democrat Bob Traxler's narrow victory Tuesday in the state's 8th District over Republican James Sparling Jr.

"And the trend in congressional elections now is for the Democrats to end up with an overwhelming majority in the House. This will mean a legislative Ford said the election would have no bearing on how Congress treats the President in regard to the impeachment inquiry now being conducted by the House Judiciary Committee.

Sparling said he did not blame Nixon for his defeat.

Traxler, who won in this traditionally GOP district despite a personal appearance by President Nixon on behalf of Sparling, said Nixon is the problem of Republicans, not Democrats. Traxler's victory gave the 8th District seat to Democrats for the first time since

It marked the fourth time in five special elections this year that normally GOP areas have fallen to the Democrats.

But it was the first time Nixon took an active role in trying to stem the tide. With all of the 296 precincts in the district unaccounted for in unofficial returns. Traxler had 59,918 votes.

The results gave Traxler 51.4 per cent of Traxler said after his victory that voters knew that perhaps a new moral force was needed in the White House.

"And while we didn't dwell on Watergate...there are a lot of people who felt it very important that a message and communication be sent that decency. honesty and integrity are absolutely essential in the White House.

In his comments, in a statement given to newsmen at Palm Springs, Calif., Ford said he had talked with Sparling "and he informed me that Watergate was not the principal factor in his defeat. The unions simply did a better job than the Republican organization in getting out the Sparling said he would decide later whether to challenge Traxler in November, when the seat opens up again in a regular election.

Phillips said mentally competent for trial

Kim Eugene Phillips was declared mentally competent to stand trial for second-degree murder Tuesday at Boone County Circuit Court in Columbia, Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming said Wednesday

In a report prepared by the State Hospital at Fulton, Phillips was listed as having "no mental disease or defect" that would prohibit him from standing trial. Fleming said.

Phillips, on a motion by his attorney, Adam Fischer, was ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination at the State Hospital earlier this year.

Fleming said the report stated that Phillips understands the "nature, quality and wrongfulness of the alleged act" and has the capacity to understand the charges against him.

Phillips. 21, is charged with the strangulation death last Aug. 13 of Karen Jones, 16, at her east Sedalia apartment. Phillips was arrested Aug. 16. He remains in the Boone County jail. The case was moved from Pettis County to Boone County on a change of venue.

Fleming also said Wednesday that Fischer has filed three motions to be heard at 1 p.m. Monday before Boone County Circuit Court Judge Frank Conley.

One of the motions, Fleming said, is a renewal of a motion to throw out of court both oral and written statements which Phillips made to law officers on Aug. 16.

Boone County Circuit Court Judge John Cave ruled last December on the same motion that the evidence can be used by the state against Phillips in the case However, Fischer renewed the motion after Judge Cave disqualified himself from the case and was replaced by Judge Conley.

The other two motions. Fleming said also seek to suppress other evidence gathered in the investigation of the

One of the motions, he said, asks the court to disallow the use of a belt obtained by authorities at an apartment at the Broadway Arms apartments.

House defeats collective bargaining rights move

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - The Missouri House narrowly defeated today a move to reconsider a proposed constitutional amendment to establish collective bargaining rights for public

The proposal was defeated last week after extended debate and a bill to provide those rights was defeated earlier in the year by the House.

The 78-60 vote to reconsider the issue fell four votes short of the necessary 82.

Minority floor leader Robert Snyder, R-Kirkwood, again raised the issue of policemen being able to strike if the proposal was approved. He also objected to attempting to provide collective bargaining rights through a constitutional amendment when it could be done by

Snyder has been active in opposing all attempts to allow collective bargaining for public employes without stringent anti-strike provisions which he says are necessary to protect society from strikes by essential groups such as police and

The move for reconsideration was made by Rep. W. E. Blackwell, D-Hermann.

The Senate bogged down in debate today over a bill to remove installment credit charges from the state sales tax.

Several senators objected to a provision designed to allow schools, both public and private, to get sales tax rebates for the sales tax paid on building and construction materials.

The primary purpose of the bill was to clear confusion over the Department of Revenue's proposal last year to try to collect sales taxes on the total price of a product including interest charges. An attorney general's opinion said the department could legally pursue such taxes and several large department stores began collecting the tax on the interest charges.

The Revenue Department, however, dropped the plan after much opposition arose and decided to await legislative action. The bill already has passed the governor a measure giving extra duties to county clerks in all but first class counties and recommending salary boosts ranging from $500 to $4,500.

Tuesday a Senate-passed bill that would allow all resorts to sell liquor by the drink was approved by the House and sent to the governor.

The bill, similar to one vetoed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond last year, would lift the current restriction of liquor sales by resorts except in counties boardering lakes with at least 250 miles of shoreline. Liquor sales still could be prohibited on a county or city option basis.

The Senate, meanwhile, approved a dozen bills after returning Tuesday from a five-day Easter recess. Approved 23-8 and sent to the House after considerable debate was a bill raising the legal interest rate ceiling for banks and trust companies from eight to 10 per cent annually.

The bill would be in effect only one year and could be changed after the trial period.

Bankers have testified that lending companies are putting their money in other states where they can get higher interest rates, thereby slowing the rate of new home construction in Missouri and making it difficult to get mortgages. Opponents disagreed, saying savings and loan institutions have plenty of money because they are investing in bonds paying only six per cent interest. The Senate also passed, 21-12, and sent to the House a bill to set up a fund to aid cities and counties in financing training of policemen or sheriff's deputies.

During heated debate, Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, slammed his fists on his table and shouted, "It's about time we should say no!" to new programs that might cost the state more money.

The sponsor, Sen. Robert Young, D-St Ann, said the bill could be funded from federal revenue sharing funds and other federal sources, as well as state money. The bill says no state money could be promised as a match for federal funds until the legislature approves it.

The bill allows a political subdivision to receive at least $1,200 a year. Any law enforcement unit with three or more officers could qualify.

The House approved and sent to the Senate a proposed constitutional amendment combining the state highway and transportation departments both were established as separate departments under the state reorganization bill passed earlier this year.

The House approved and sent to the governor a bill giving the state Division of Health authority to ensure sanitation of soft drink containers.

An amendment by Rep. Jerold Drake. D-Grant City, to prohibit the use of nonreturnable containers was criticized by Rep. Clarence Heflin, D-Independence, who said "It would put a number of people out of business.

Heflin, a grocer, opposed all attempts to put deposits on all containers or prohibit use of non-returnable cans and bottles. The amendments failed.

The House also approved and sent to the governor a bill regulating physical therapists. An attempt to include chiropractors in the bill failed.

Approved by the Senate and sent to the governor was a bill to raise the St. Louis recorder of deeds' salary by $6,800 a year.

Not a 'reluctant' robber

Attorney general considers Patricia Hearst a criminal

WASHINGTON (AP) - Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said today he is convinced that Patricia Hearst "was not a reluctant participant" in a San Francisco bank robbery and that he considers her a common criminal.

In San Francisco today. Saxbe's view was bolstered by bank guard Edward Shea, who said Miss Hearst "was full of curse words" and appeared ready to fire a sawed-off carbine if necessary during the Shea, 66, who was disarmed during the holdup, said Miss Hearst "absolutely was a participant" in the bank heist Monday in which two passers-by were shot.

"She wasn't scared, I'll tell you that," he said. "She looked as though she knew what she was doing. She had a gun and looked ready to use it. She had plenty of command in her voice. She was full of curse words. She let it be known that she meant business.

Saxbe said he believes the FBI would be justified in breaking into a dwelling to capture Miss Hearst and SLA members.

"The entire group we're talking about are common criminals," Saxbe said. Asked if he was including Miss Hearst in that description, he replied, "Miss Hearst is part of it.

In response to questions about the bank robbery, Saxbe said, "it would appear to me that she was not a reluctant participant in this robbery. My personal conclusion is that she was not a reluctant participant. There's room for others to say she was coerced into it, the two guns pointed at her and so on."

Earlier, Miss Hearst's fiance said he believes the SLA contrived the bank holdup - in which she carried a carbine - to make people think she had joined the terrorist group. Steven Weed, 26, told reporters Tuesday that Monday's bank heist, in which two persons were wounded and $10,690 was stolen, was designed "to get people to believe she is converted without having to

He also said he believed Miss Hearst "is being humiliated at the hands of a group of people who are determined not to let her get out of this alive.' In an April 3 taped communique. Miss

Hearst scorned her family and said she had joined the SLA, which has claimed responsibility for abducting her Feb. 4 from a Berkeley, Calif., apartment she shared

Weed said Miss Hearst, 20, appeared sick and exhausted in the photographs taken automatically by cameras in the

Polling places are designated for May school levy balloting

By JOE KELL Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The Sedalia Board of Education voted Tuesday night to have four polling places for the proposed 37-cent tax levy to be voted on May 14.

District voters defeated the levy when it was first submitted April 2 by a 3,094 to 2,954 margin. The increase, from $3.62 per $100 assessed valuation to $3.99, needs a simple majority to pass.

The polling places will be: First Ward — Heber Hunt School, Seventh and Warren; Second Ward - Hubbard School, Osage and Henry; Third Ward - Sedalia Junior High School, 2205 South Ingram; and Fourth Ward — Trinity Lutheran Church, 3201 Southwest Blvd.

Since there will be only four polling places, as opposed to 16 in most city-wide elections, the board decided to have a minimum of 10 workers at each polling place. Six are required.

School district residents living outside

Sedalia will vote in the city, with the location determined by their township. The schedule will be as follows, according to P. A. Sillers, director of elementary education: Prairie township at Heber Hunt; Cedar and Longwood townships. Hubbard; Lake Creek, Flat Creek, Smithton and Sedalia east townships, junior high school; and Washington and Sedalia west townships, Trinity Lutheran Church.

In other action, the board adopted a dual enrollment policy for seniors, approved a resolution removing chocolate milk from the schools, and met with Roscoe Righter, city recreation director

Because the school system is losing approximately $500 per month in state aid. the board voted to eliminate flavored milk from the school system's menus.

Dr. Allan Henningsen, superintendent of schools, told the board that when students take chocolate milk for their lunch, the lunch does not qualify as a Class A lunch in the eyes of the State Department of Education, and thus the state does not reimburse the system for that lunch. With the elimination of chocolate milk, the board hopes to improve the lunch program budget, which is running at a deficit. At Henningsen's recommendation, the board then adopted a policy allowing students to dual enroll in Smith-Cotton High School and State Fair Community College under certain limited conditions. To qualify, a student must academically place in the upper 25 per cent of his class. be 17 years of age, have completed a minimum of 16 units of credit, and demonstrate the maturity required to succeed in higher education. In addition, the principal of Smith-Cotton High School must approve the request. The program is designed to allow students to begin their college education earlier, and have a maximum of flexibility

Dr. Henningsen said there is only one student dual enrolled at the present time.

Chamber 'hasn't given up' on manager

By RON JENNINGS Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Although no funds for employing an executive manager were included in the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce budget for the coming year, Chamber board of directors president Jake Siragusa Tuesday said "we still haven't given up on the matter.

The budget, approved at the board's monthly meeting, called for a total of $27,055 in expenditures, including a reserve

"It just gets back to the idea of not having enough money at the present. Siragusa said later. "However, I hope we can realize extra funds by selling additional new memberships. I don't think that's beyond the realm of possibility this year."

A significant portion of this year's budget, some $7,000, will fund the costs of an extensive public relations effort including billboard advertising, tourism slide presentations and the production and publishing of an up-dated information brochure on the city. "We feel it's important to sell this city as a wonderful place to live, visit, work and play in," Siragusa said. "That's a major objective this year. Siragusa emphasized the cost of the 50,000 brochures, expected to be available this summer, will be completely funded by the Chamber and not by any other

"I think it's important not to rely on these people to help us out all the time and for us to impose on their graciousness," he said. "This time, when the words 'Sedalia Chamber of Commerce' appear on the booklet, that's what it will mean ... that the booklet was funded completely by the

In other business, the Chamber agreed to purchase up to $5,000 in souvenirs for the Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival. Siragusa appointed a committee of John Ellison, Ed Kehde and K. U. Love Jr., to select the type of souvenirs to be purchased. Suggestions discussed at the meeting included commemorative mugs, plates, ash trays and key chains. It was understood that the souvenirs will be sold by Chamber members in their stores and, possibly, by local clubs and

It was also announced that the Chamber will possibly have an inside booth for the first time at the Missouri State Fair. The booth would feature the tourism slide presentation in addition to other items. The Chamber will continue to maintain its customary outside information booth in front of the Administration Building. State Fair committee chairman Robert Woolery reported that Fair Secretary Ron Jones asked the cooperation of the Chamber in publicizing the "Great Missouri Get-Together." which will be the theme of this year's Fair, Aug. 16-25.

The board discussed cooperating by acquiring free Fair stickers, to be furnished by Jones, to attach to their mail: encouraging the inclusion of a State Fair reference in their postage meters; and discussing the Fair with local and area organizations upon request.

The Chamber board will meet in special session at 3 p.m. April 25 in the Chamber office with Jones to further discuss the Chamber's role in promoting the Fair.

It was also announced that local realtor Kenny Miller will represent the Chamber April 28-30 at the yearly congressional appropriation hearings on the Kaysinger Dam project to be held in Washington D.C.

Four new Chamber members enlisted during the past month, it was announced They were the Brown Oil Co., the Bandag tire recapping service, the Wally Frank Oil Co. and the Consumers East supermarket.

USDA energy chief will be ousted from his post by May, sources say

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Nicholas H. Smith, farm energy chief in the Agriculture Department, will be ousted from his job by May 1, according to government sources

Smith, whose salary is $33.899 a year, announced his resignation Monday to associates, the sources said. But he told a reporter Tuesday night "no definite decision" had been made about leaving his post

Smith flatly denied, however, that Agriculture Secretary Earl

L. Butz, now on a trip to the Far East, had requested he quit. Butz will return about April 24.

Smith joined USDA a year ago as a political appointee in the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. He was named to head farm energy surveillance for the agency on June 27 last year.

As recently as March 29, Butz reaffirmed Smith as head of the department's energy op-been designated by the ASCS administrator as director of USDA energy management activities. Liaison with the Federal Energy Office will be through his office," the memorandum signed by Butz said. None of three sources which said Smith will be ousted was able or willing to pinpoint the reason. However, one said Smith might have ad libbed too much on policy matters during farm energy testimony before congressional committees.

The source said Butz - or "Mr. Nicholas H. Smith has perhaps those near him - may have become concerned that dent Ford, who is also from Smith was "too busy making policy instead of carrying out the party line" formulated by Nixon farm officials.

Smith has a 1,700-acre crops and dairy farm in Michigan and reportedly may return there to head those operations. He was chairman of the Michigan state ASC committee, a politically appointed panel which oversees government farm programs in the state.

Another source said Smith might seek another government post, perhaps with Vice PresiMichigan.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A trade organization, the U.S. Feed Grains Council, says Japanese consumers have shown their appetites for beef but have not increased per capita consumption as much as they might have.

'The demand is there,' the council said Tuesday in a newsletter. "The scarcity and high prices keep the consumer from using more.

The report said per capita beef consumption in Japan rose less than one pound annually during the last five years to about 8.5 pounds per person

"A complicated marketing system, harboring an array of middlemen, contributes to the high prices," the report said. 'But packaged Kobe beef

Old wash boiler has bright future

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with the planners of both mobile and standard homes who must all be 10 feet tall males. Invariably kitchen cupboards are placed so high above counter tops that, for the average woman, only the contents of the bottom shelves are easily accessible. To get anything from a shelf above, one must stand on tiptoe, a stool or chair. Lowering cupboards to 14 inches above counter tops, just so an electric mixer and bread box can slide under easily. would be a boon to homemakers. - NELL. DEAR POLLY - Mrs. D.P. should strain the fat in her deep fryer through a double thickness of cheeselcoth, put it back in the fryer and cook two medium-size potatoes at about 250-degrees. The draining removes any particles in the fat and the potatoes remove the stale taste and odor. Keeping such fat in the refrigerator, especially when the weather is warm, also would keep it fresher. — MARY H. DEAR POLLY — Mrs. D.P can strain the fat in the deep fryer by pouring it through nylon, such as part of a CLEAN stocking, that she stretches over a clean three-pound coffee can. I do this and the nylon catches crumbs, salt, etc. When I use the fat again I need to add very little more. To do this I cut the top off a nylon stocking, stich up one end, stretch the open end over the coffee can and pour the grease through. I both nylon and can are extra clean. - MRS. R.A. DEAR POLLY — Our family eats grapefruit for breakfast so I always had to clean juice spots off the top of my lovely birch table because much of it was exposed around mats. Now I use a bright-colored beach towel as a breakfast usually use the grease four times by doing this. It can be one needle and leave nice long loops for inserting the needle when knitting the second row. - M.H.

DEAR GIRLS - I use a needle larger than required for the article for casting on that first row of knitting. -

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY - What does one use to clean and restore old copper wash boilers? I have heard that they can be sprayed a brassy color when cleaned and do not tarnish again. I hope someone will tell me if I can spray mine to look like brass instead of copper since they make ideal containers for firewood. - M.M.P.

First degree murder charged in 2 warrants

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW - First degree murder warrants were issued Tuesday night for the arrests of two Kansas City, Kan., men in connection with the homicide Saturday of John E. Bedgood, 28, Belton.

The men have not been arrested. Benton County Deputy Sheriff Robert

Hamner declined to identify the men, saying that the information might hinder officers from apprehending them. Bedgood was killed about 1

Saturday near Routes V and M in Benton County when a pickup truck driven by one of the men ran over Bedgood. The other man named in the warrant also was in the truck at the time of the alleged homocide. Hamner said the suspects were identified by law authorities in Kansas City, Kan., based on information supplied by witnesses. The information, Hamner said, included composite drawings and the suspects' last names Witnesses also indicated that the 1964 pickup truck the men were driving had Kansas license plates and a Wyandotte County sticker. Kansas City, Kan., is in Wyandotte County.

Bedgood was among six couples and two children who were campaing near Hastings last weekend when the two men named in the warrants drove into the camp late Friday night.

Bedgood and another man, about two hours later, left camp with the two men in the pickup truck to look for firewood. While Bedgood reportedly was lighting a cigarette, he was run over by the truck.

Hamner said both suspects are in their early '20s and apparently have no prior criminal records. The deputy sheriff added that no motive has yet been established for the killing.

Nixon names Simon to head the Treasury

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon named federal energy chief William E. Simon to be Treasury secretary today and pledged to play an expanded personal role in directing the government's economic policy.

Nixon promoted Simon's chief assistant, John C. Sawhill, to federal energy administrator.

In announcing Simon's nomination, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren also announced that the President "intends to play an increasingly expanded role," in coordinating the administration's economic policy.

Simon's selection had been expected for

If confirmed by the Senate, Simon, a millionaire former Wall Street bond dealer, would succeed George Shultz, who departs next month after five years as a key Nixon administration official.

Unlike Shultz, Simon is not an economist. But he earned high marks from the White House for his brisk, sometimes brusk, handling of the energy adviser's post he was given four months ago.

Even before Shultz's resignation was formally disclosed weeks ago, Simon had emerged as the front runner for the Cabinet post. He had joined Treasury as a deputy secretary 17 months ago and had become Shultz's top aide before assuming command of the federal government's response to the energy crisis.

On Wall Street, Simon had amassed a fortune - estimated at about $3 million but sold his holdings when he joined the

President not dismayed over Michigan vote

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon was depicted by the White House today as neither dismayed nor disheartened by the victory of a Democrat in Michigan's special election.

'The President believes that Jim Sparling fought a good fight and if a man is willing to run hard and campaign hard on the issues, the President will never turn away an opportunity to help that candidate," said Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren.

He said Nixon did that in the eighth congressional district election.

'The results were far closer than were expected a few weeks ago," Warren said in commenting on the victory of Democrat Robert Traxler over GOP candidate James Sparling Jr., for whom Nixon had campaigned in rural areas.

Republican Chairman George Bush expressed disappointment, but predicted the GOP will do better in the fall elec-

'Our candidate closed the gap in the last few days adter the President's visit but obviously not enough to win," Bush said. "The economy hurt, the energy crisis hurt, and of course Watergate hurt.

May establish pollution monitor station in city

The Environmental Quality Commission announced at its regular meeting Tuesday night that plans are progressing for an air pollution monitor station in Sedalia

Bob Solomon, commission chairman, said the Air Conservation Commission (ACC) had sent a letter to the commission and to Mayor Jerry Jones suggesting that if the city chose a suitable site for a monitor station, the ACC would provide the equipment.

The commission recommended the fire station on fourth and Montgomery as a suitable site for the monitor. Mayor Jones said in a letter to the commission and to ACC that he would recommend to Fire Chief Willis Jabbas that a fireman be made available to service the monitor.

Solomon said the monitor would have to be serviced for 30 minutes once every six days. And after each servicing, a sample of Sedalia's air would be sent to ACC in Jefferson City for pollution evaluation.

The commission also received a letter of acknowledgement from Jones regarding its concern over work being done on Convention Hall.

In the letter, Jones indicated that he was "a bit dismayed at the bricking in of the windows" in front of Convention Hall. Solomon said, "We've carried the Convention Hall matter just about as far as we could. Mrs. Judy Berenyi, commission member, suggested looking into the possibility of a director of other historical buildings in Sedalia that could be preserved to display the city's heritage Sedalia could be a real tourist attraction," she said. "For example, a railroad museum could really draw in cross-country traffic from Highway 70.' In other business, the commission decided to contact allergy specialists to see what could be done to monitor the pollen count in Sedalia The commission also decided to submit its budget request for the coming year to the City Council at the council's next meeting. In other business, Bill Hall told the board that as of June 1, he no longer would be eligible to serve as a commission member.

False bomb call tor a restaurant

The police and fire departments received a call shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday indicating there was a bomb under Kings Food Host, 1101 South Limit, but the call proved to be a hoax.

The call came in over the fire phone, according to the police report, and both departments responded to the call, which indicated that there was a "bomb under

No bomb was found around the building, which doesn't have a basement.

In other police news, Daniel Coffey Lincoln, reported the theft of 22 eight-track tapes from his car while it was parked on a lot at 1425 South Limit at about midnight

John Joy, 804 Ruth Ann Drive, an employe at Sedalia Implement Co., 2205 South Limit, reported the theft of a sprayer pump from the firm sometime since April 8. Joy told police the theft was discovered Monday.

The term "sabbatical year." meaning a leave of absence every seventh year, came from the Old Testament. The Jews directed that every seventh year the agricultural land should be allowed to lie fallow or to rest on the seventh year

He said he will be moving outside of Sedalia. Hall also said he has agreed to work with Midwest Research Institute (MRI), Kansas City, as an economic development consultant. Hall was formerly economic development director of Sedalia and is now employed by Rival Manufacturing Co. He said his work for MRI would be done on his vacation and other free time and would not affect his duties at Rival.

Continue search for robbers

(Democrat-Capital Service)

CLINTON — Police have a composite drawing and several leads on their number one suspect in an armed robbery of a jewelry store here Saturday in which the owner was shot

Clinton police chief Wendell Richards said Tuesday that the drawing was compiled from witnesses' descriptions shortly after the hold up.

According to police, two men, one armed with a small caliber pistol, entered Kyle's Jewelry Store here about 5:15 p.m. Saturday. One of them shot Kyle Kemper. owner, in the shoulder and pistol whipped his wife.

Kemper was listed in satisfactory condition Tuesday evening at Golden Valley Hospital. Mrs. Kemper was treated Saturday for scalp lacerations and released.

Both men escaped through the crowded courthouse square with several bags from the store safe and an undetermined amount of jewelry, police said. Police have reportedly narrowed the number of suspects to three or four and most are not from the Clinton area, Richards said. However, he said police

"don't have enough evidence yet to make an arrest. Besides Kemper and his wife, two other witnesses were in the store and five witnesses were outside of the building at the time of the holdup

He said police still are working on the case and that they are concentrating their efforts on the number one suspect, the man who shot Kemper. He reportedly was driving a 1965 or 1967 Buick.

Roy Simpson, Henry County deputy sheriff, said Tuesday some papers from the store safe were found Monday in a creek bed northwest of here. Coats and a hat, believed to have been worn by the two robbers were also found.

Simpson also said the robbers got away with jewelry and watches and apparently did not break into the store's cash register.

Righter appeared before the school board to solicit its help in expanding the recreational facilities available in the city.

On a long term basis, Righter asked that the board work with the Park Board in obtaining more land for recreational use for Sedalians, and on a short range basis, asked permission to use the two ballfields at the junior high school during the summer for city league play, as well as the practice area north of Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

The board indicated the city can use the two ballfields at the junior high school this summer, but withheld granting use of the practice area at the Jennie Jaynes Stadium due to the resodding of the stadium this

The board voted to grant a property easement to the city for construction at the High Point School on South Limit. The 10foot easement is for construction of a water main south on Limit to the city limits.

At Dr. Chester Kirkpatrick's request, Henningsen promised to remind teachers they are required to remain in their classrooms for 20 minutes after school each day. Kirkpatrick said he made the request because of complaints he has received from parents who came in immediately after school to talk with their children's teachers, and found the classroom empty.

Finally, the board voted to conduct the sale of the house constructed by the building and trades class the same way as last year. The house, located at 11th and Sylvia, will be sold to the highest bidder, providing the highest bid is more than the appraised value of the house. If not, the bids will be rejected, and the house will be sold on the open market.

Henningsen told the board that the school district is eligible for a $94,000 grant from the federal government under the Federal Emergency School Aid Act (Title 7), to be used to hire teachers aids for the elementary schools. Sedalia School District 200 originally asked more than $200,000 under the Title 7 program.

For County Nursing Service

Discuss plan for nursing building

The Pettis County Nursing Service Advisory Council, at a meeting Tuesday, reviewed preliminary plans for a building to house the Pettis County Nursing Service. The plans call for the construction of a 2,700-square-foot steel structure on a cityowned lot at the southeast corner of 15th Street, facing Thompson Ave. Such a building would cost between $60,000 and $65,000.

The council last month received permission from the Pettis County Court to apply for federal funds to finance half the cost of the project. Both the court and the council want to see the nursing service. now located on the second floor of the Pettis County Courthouse, moved to a new facility.

Roger Garlich, chairman of the nursing council, said the building plans will be sent for approval to the State Division of Health in Jefferson City later this week. The Division of Health, he said, must approve the plans before the council can apply for federal funds.

If the plan is approved, the council would apply for federal funds under the Hill-Burton Act. The council has until May 30 to Garlich said the proposed building is similar to a health facility in Versailles which council members toured recently. The structure, Garlich said, would contain two examination rooms, a 20-by-30-foot multi-purpose room, four offices for nurses, a receptionist's office and a small laboratory

The steel structure would have a brick facade and would be fireproof, he said.

Mrs. Rita Owens, publicity chairman for the council, noted that the proposed structure is "just about the cheapest" type of building that would meet the needs of the nurses and still be nice in appearance.

Garlich said probably the greatest advantage of the location of the building would be its closeness to Bothwell Hospital and the medical staff. Because federal funds would provide only 50 per cent of the estimated cost of the building, the rest of the money would have to be raised locally. The Sedalia City Council already has agreed to donate $10,000 for the building. No other commitments have been made, Garlich Garlich also pointed out that the building site would be provided free of charge by the city. The property now is under the control of the Bothwell Hospital Board of Trustees he said.

Garlich said the council's application for the Hill-Burton monies probably would be reviewed before June 30, the end of the present fiscal year for the federal agency that distributes the funds.

Hospital construction making good progress

"Progress has just been fabulous ... in the past month," Bothwell Hospital board member Neil Chapman said in reference to construction on the new addition to the hospital. Hospital employes will receive 15 cent per hour raises effective May 1, the board decided at the session. Feeback said the raises will serve the dual purpose of keeping up with the rising cost of living as well as complying with new federal minimum wage law. The administrator told The Democrat-Capital most hospital employes now receive salaries above the minimum wage. He indicated that the raises would meet the new laws for the base pay rates on some hospital jobs.

Finance officer Ray Jiedel said the raises would cost 'about $120,000.'

Feeback said the lot which the city may donate is currently the site of a house used for hospital storage.

The board designated its building committee as the group which will award bids on equipment, including an operating table and proctologic table as well as various waiting room furnishings, lockers, office furniture and cleaning carts. Bids on that equipment are due Saturday, it was reported.

Jiedel said the board next month will review and decide on additional equipment purchases totaling between $50,000 and $75,000.

Mrs. Vivian Warren reported that the hospital scholarship committee will meet soon to review a nursing scholarship application.

Feeback reported that the hospital's new phone system is now completely installed. Donations of $1,500 each have been received from the Sedalia Independent Retail Grocers Association, Fred Evans, president, and from William R Parkhurst, it was reported.

Back auto sales tax collections increasing

(AP) — State Revenue Director James Spradling said Monday collections have been on the increase recently in his department's campaign to recover nearly $1.4 million in unpaid state sales tax on automobiles. Under the collection program, begun last year as a part of the department's massive crackdown on all types of tax evasion, Spradling said thousands of motorists are being notified by mail that they owe the state tax on vehicles purchased since the mid-1960's.

If they refuse to pay the tax they allegedly owe within 15 days and cannot prove they had paid it in the past, the revenue chief said the vehicle registration of every car they now own will be revoked. He noted that the collection problem was cited two years ago in an auditor's report on the department's operations. More than $92,000 in back taxes was collected during the four-week period that ended April 5, and Spradling said collections were really beginning to jump now.

Although Spradling was unable to estimate the number of car owners around the state involved or how many registrations have been revoked thus far, he said that last year alone some 18,000 vehicles were purchased but never had sales tax paid on them.

Most of the untaxed cars carry state license plates but those plates would necessarily be registered under some other vehicle, Spradling said. Although revocation of registration would not prohibit someone from driving a car, he pointed out that such drivers would be subject to a misdemeanor charge if they are arrested through nor-ing vehicle registration applications with loan records from banks and other lending institutions, Spradling said.

Concerning other elements of the Revenue Department's tax evasion crackdown, Spradling said his special investigative team is ready to initiate two more arrests for sales tax evasion before month's end with four more arrests expected soon after.

Only three arrests have been made since the crackdown began last fall with one conviction resulting and the trials of the other two persons still pending.

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Police Chief Joseph D. McNamara says the city council and City Manager Robert A. Kipp "have acted in bad faith" concerning promised salary increases for police officers.

'Viet Journal' is very different work from World War II novelist

By EVE SHARBUTT AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - James Jones, wounded in the bitter fighting for Guadalcanal in World War II, leaned back in his chair and admitted he was an amateur at writing about

His plaid jacket and brown tie are worlds away from the Army private's uniform he wore in World War II, the war he chronicled in "From Here to Eternity," and "The Thin Red

"I didn't know anything about Vietnam when I wen there, which may have beer the one thing to my advantage. I had a fresh eye." the novelist added.

Jones traveled to Vietnam to write about the close-down of U.S. involvement for the New York Times magazine. The eventual result was "Viet Journal," a non-fiction diary of the

"I don't think there was much difference between soldiers in World War II and Vietnam. You must remember I didn't get to talk to a draftee army in Vietnam, only officers and professionals.

"But there were a lot of bitter vets. bitter people, in World War II. It was just as spiritually distressing as Vietnam. At that time there was more discrimination, favoritism, nepotism and more partiality than there is now in the military. A lot of people's sons stayed home and got fat on the profits of war," Jones said.

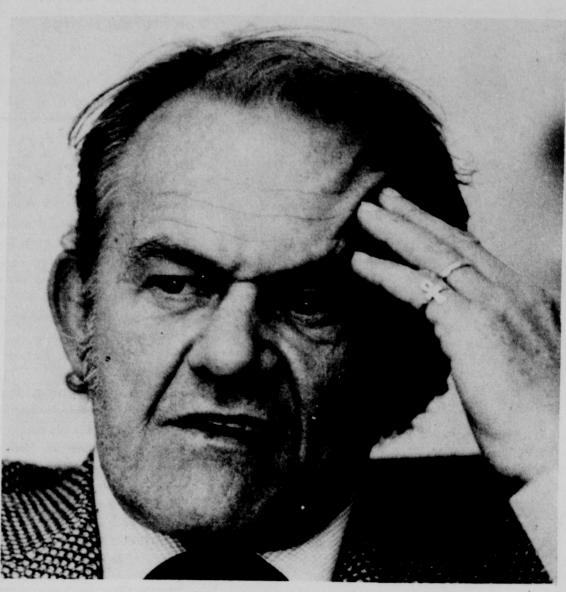

That'll be part of Jones' next work of fiction, "Whistle," as yet unfinished.

"I've been working at it off and on for five or six years. I see it as part of a trilogy with the other World War II books. It follows that bitter soldier out of combat and back home."

The novelist resents any inference that World War II soldiers were a happier, more charming, sweeter breed of all-American boy than the Vietnam army

There was a lot of animosity toward officers then." he recalled. "The so-called fraggings in Vietnam were nothing new. A lot of officers got shot in the back 'accidentally' in World War II.

Report on Vietnam

Novelist James Jones, photographed recently in New York, is best known for his World War II novels. But his latest book, "Viet Journal," is a non-fiction account of his visit to Vietnam to report on the windup of American involvement there. of a trilogy with the WW!I "From Here to Eternity" and "The Thin Red Line." The writer has been resident in Paris for the last 16 years, but from this fall he'll be living in Key Biscayne, working with young writers at Florida International University.

Jones adds, "probably the last hand trying to prepare for the adventure I'll ever have. When assignment, I found what I didn't expect. Admittedly cynical about both sides of the Vietnam conflict. Jones set out to observe spots where fighting continued despite the cease-fire, to see cities where the fighting was finished and reconstruction underway and to talk to people.

He helicoptered into Dak Pek. a ranger camp in the central highlands, and writes dramatically of the fear of flying behind enemy lines. "Viet Journal" is not Jones at his best, but the writing is objective, no-nonsense reportage. He has been accused of defending American in-volvement in Vietnam, but would prefer to emerge as an honest observer of the conflict and its aftermath.

"I was interested that so many American officers said the same thing - that they want to come back in five years and see what Vietnam is like. This comment was always unsolicited. It was evidently something they were thinking about. These Americans were professional, involved in a certain amount of blood and emotion and sweat.

"I worked three months on four articles I was commissioned to write. They printed one. So I kept on working. The first 55 pages of the book was all new stuff, written in Greece during my vacation. The rest I wrote in little more than a month, incorporating the four articles. I worked like a son of a bitch seven days a week.

'When I finished I was so keyed up I couldn't rest. So the impetus carried me right on into "Whistle." I had something to say about Vietnam - maybe it's not stated anywhere, but the book says something. I feel it's there, and it's no point of view but my own.

Jones says it will be an advantage in finishing the new novel, this trip to the war zone. "I never thought about it at the time but it refreshed a lot of visual images about war, kind of a feeling of being in wartime all that returned to me in Vietnam.

Lighting another long, black Havana cigar, Jones talked about the future. After living in Paris for 16 years, he, his wife Gloria and their two children will move this fall to Key Biscayne, where he will work with young writers at Florida International University.

I've done a lot of that over the years, not officially. People turn up here and there and you help them, always in a one-onone situation. You can't teach a class of 35 people how to write. But I won't have many students - 12 or 15 - and I'll be able to give each one a certain amount of time," he said.

"After you pass 50 you begin to get a sense of time running out on you a little," said the novelist. "There are four to six novels I want to write if I can. I'm not going to run out of things to write about.

Bobby Goldsboro Uses Sensitive Approach To Lyric of Disney's "Superdad" Theme

low price

Bobby Goldsboro sets aside his pixie personality and picks up his guitar and a sensitive approach to lyric as he sings "These Are the Best Times," the theme song from Walt Disney Productions' romantic comedy, "Superdad," currently at The Fox Theatre.

Goldsboro's rendition of the song, written by Shane Tatum, expresses all of the bittersweet timelessness of young love seen in the movie, when Bob Crane, as an establishment father tries to break up his teenage daughter's (KATHLEEN CODY) unrushed relationship with her boyfriend, played by Kurt Russell, hoping she'll marry someone in his own image

Now host of his own variety show syndicated in 116 markets, Goldsboro is one of the most popular musicians on the charts. He has appeared on virtually every major TV variety and talk show and holds the record for guest appearances on "The Mike Douglas Show." Tales of his accident-prone existence and an imitation of a tree frog have made him a steady guest on "The Tonight Show" and "Dinah's Place," among others.

Goldsboro's only formal music training was two weeks of piano Jessons as a child with a teacher who soon became frustrated at being stood up for baseball practice. He began strumming on a friend's ukelele one day, and after he had mastered it, he tackled

While attending college at Auburn (Ala.)

University, Goldsboro played in a band called The Webb, a group whose members sported black ties monogrammed with white spiders. The group won an audition with Roy Orbison, a pop singer of the 50's and early 60's, who hired them as his back-up musicians. During the two years they worked together, Orbison and Goldsboro became friends and collaborated on a number of songs.

In 1963, he was signed to a recording contract with United Artists Records and several months later "See the Funny Little Clown" was released, followed through the years by hits including "Little Things," "Voodoo Woman," "Pledge of Love," "Autumn of My Life," "The Straight Life," "Watchin" Scotty Grow," "I'm a Drifter," and "With Pen in Hand." Goldsboro recorded "Honey" in 1968, which became the largest selling single in the world that year.

Darch headlines special concert

The Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival Committee will present another curtain-raiser leading up to the July festival with a special concert at 8 p.m. April 30 in the Smith-Cotton auditorium.

"Ragtime Bob" Darch will headline the concert, which is entitled "Three Generations of Ragtime." Also featured will be Steve Spracklen and Peter Lundberg.

The three pianists will present a musical history of ragtime, playing on a grand piano and two uprights.

Darch, 55, who is familiar to Sedalia audiences, is one of the best-known popularizers of the ragtime style. He starred in the Centennial ragtime concert here, and has appeared since.

Lundberg, 33, is a native of Sweden, and is one of Europe's best-known ragtime and jazz performers. He was introduced to ragtime in this country in 1963, and since then has composed several compositions, including "The Smorgasbord Rag.

Spracklen, rounding out the lowest level of the ragtime generations at 22, is a native of Joplin, Mo., and a protege of Darch, with whom he performed in Sedalia in 1971. Spracklen has played engagements in this country and Canada.

Local proceeds from the concert will go toward the Joplin Festival, scheduled for July 25-28.

Advance reduced-price tickets are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce and may be purchased from festival personnel.

Environmentalists harpoon whalers with an old radical tool

By WILLIAM HARGROVE

NEW YORK — If concerned Americans have their way, the endangered species list may soon include Japanese and Soviet whalers. Environmentalists here are already beginning to draw blood with an old radical tool, the economic boycott

With imported whale products banned in the United States since 1971 and Russian products all but non-existent here, the boycott is targeted at all Japanese imports.

The rising groundswell of consumer protest is fed by fears that the Japanese and Russians are severely reducing the whale's already diminished ranks for a number of unnecessary products.

Shoe polish, cosmetics, margarine and soap are just a few of the numerous whale oil derivatives that could be made just as easily and cheaply from vegetable oil or snythetics. says George Small, author of "The Blue Whale," winner of a 1972 National Book Award

More than two million whales have been slaughtered in the last half century, with 37,500 set as the quota for this season. With the blue whale, the hampback, the right whale and several other species near extinction. U.S. cetologists are pushing for a 10-year moratorium on whaling. The U.S. declared such a ban for itself in 1971

The Japanese counter that whale oil, which has substitutes, is not their prime say, is a traditional Japanese passage. food and makes up about 7 per cent of the nation's animal protein intake. What is more. they add. Japanese whalers annually reap only enough whales to let the over-all population remain the same and provide a sustained yield.

"If we kill off the whales we cannot get whale meat any more," says Yasuo Nozaka, a representative of the Japanese consulate in New York. "We don't want to do that kind of foolishness, obviously.

The present boycott was set off by the Japanese refusal last fall to accept new International Whaling Commission (IWC) regulations limiting the catch of three species of whale. Japan. followed by the Soviets, called the restrictions unrealistic and chose to invoke an IWC loophole that allows any member to renounce new objective. Whale meat, they regulations within 90 days of made from a scientific point of motivated by sentimentality." the Japanese IWC representative declared.

The American boycott arose from the feeling among environmentalists that Japanese scientists had juggled their own figures to fit the needs of the whaling industry.

Scott McVay, a whale conservationist and former U.S. delegate to the IWC, admits some species such as the fin whale are being harvested at a rate that will preserve the present population. But, he adds, the present population is only 15 to 18 per cent of its original size.

'To talk about a sustainable yield for a species that is already so beaten down just doesn't make sense.

McVay charges that the "It is difficult to take the Japanese "simply pulled data view that the amendments were out of their hats" to back up a quota of 12,000 minke whales view, ... they seem rather to be for this season. The IWC had set the quota at 5,000 to maintain the present minke population.

Despite reassurances by the Japanese government that their whaling companies are not in the wrong, Japanese businessmen in the United States are feeling the pressure of the boycott.

We have received about 500 letters from concerned people,' says Y. Katayama, president of the U.S. subsidiary of Nissan Motors, makers of Datsun automobiles.

"They say they are not going to purchase Datsuns or any other Japanese products until the excessive killing of whales is stopped." And though Datsun sales have not yet been affected, he adds, "I am of course, very much concerned about the effect this might have on our business in the future.'

As yet the public awareness of the whale movement is still slight. In New York, a few enthusiasts under the acronym RARE (Rare Animal Relief Effort) have garnered about 10,000 signatures during sidewalk demonstrations before Japanese businesses.

Twelve-thousand students in Southern California school district passed a resolution supporting the boycott. One high school in the district even refused a dealer's offer of a free Japanese motorcycle for a fundraising project.

And in San Francisco an effort called Project Jonah has sent a deluge of letters from whale-loving elementary school pupils onto the desks of Japanese and Russian officials.

Schoolchildren aren't the only ones writing to the Japanese embassy and consulates. Datsun's Katayama and numerous other Japanese importers, whose sales make up about 3 per cent of Japan's GNP, are echoing complaints from their customers.

Some letters are strongly worded. S&W Fine Foods, Inc., American firm which imports Japanese fruits and seafoods, said in a missive to the embassy: "We see a continuation of consumer pressure, perhaps to the point that S&W will be forced to abandon the importation of Japanese products.

USE HOMETOWN Always Fresher

About 15 major environmental groups with 4.5million members are behind the whale movement. Their attention is focused on the upcoming IWC meeting in London this June. Their hope is that the Japanese will yield to the pressure and that the Soviets will follow suit.

However, even if the Japanese and Russians should eventually accept new IWC regulations or even a moratorium, the future of whales will not be assured. The IWC convention applies only to its 14 members. And even for its members, its rulings are not legally enforceable. (NEA)

Writing career gets late start

By PHIL THOMAS AP Books Editor

NEW YORK (AP) - Dressed in a plaid suit with a bowler riding easily on his graying hair and a black umbrella held loosely in his hand, Richard Adams looks very much the Englishman - which he is.

But, as the 53-year-old novelist is quick to point out, the resemblance ends there "since I'm not reserved like so many of the English. I talk readily, freely and easily and because of this some regard me as strange.

He also isn't a typical novelist, having written nothing iust poems when I fell in love with a girl as a young fellow" until he was 46. And then only because of the constant urging of his youngest daughter, Rosamond, 14. "If she hadn't forced me." Adams says with a laugh, "I wouldn't have sat down and written 'Watership Down.

The novel, a fantasy about a group of rabbits who leave their native warren in search of a new and better place to live. first appeared in England and recently was published in this country, which explained the reason behind Adams' first trip to the United States, a place he finds "warm and free.

Adams, who took his degree at Oxford after serving as a paratrooper in World War II. spent his entire working life in the British civil service before retiring recently after 25 years.

He was still working when he began "Watership Down," and "after my daughter forced me

I decided to do it as an escape from work. So, every night after supper I'd sit down and work on it. It took me 18 months to write and another six months to polish it but actually work began on it mentally a long time before.

When my girls were quite young (his other daughter, Juliet, is now 16) we'd go on long drives out of London and to while away the time I'd tell them stories. And that's how Watership Down' came into being. It started as a story right off the top of my head about a rabbit named Hazel but the girls wouldn't let me stop after just one story. I had to keep it up. And then after I'd made up all these stories, I was made to write them down. Adams, who thinks the important thing for a writer is "to feel you've given pleasure to thousands of people - that is very nice," considers his book "yarn about adventure, a novel about leadership, and a hymn of praise to the English countryside" - a point he emphasizes by showing color slides of rural areas which figure prominently in the novel. I was brought up in the English countryside." he says. and I love it. We have a coun-

Telephone toll call fraud is uncovered

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Officials of United Telephone System-Midwest group said today they are in the process of cleaning up what they termed a telephone toll call fraud that ran into "the thousands and thousands of dollars.

According to Harold Hartley at the company's security department headquarters here, the alleged fraud was uncovered through intense investigation by the security force after word of the operation leaked

Hartley said the activity began when a United customer apparently by chance dis-covered that by dialing a certain access code, long distance calls could be made bypassing the telephone system's billing

The knowledge of the code was guarded closely after it was initially discovered but then began to spread rapidly by word of mouth, he said.

Hartley declined, however, to identify the Midwest city where the weakness in the system was first discovered. Since the company does not intend to prosecute those who made use of the access code, he said identification of the community could lead to embarrassment of those involved and possible libel since pinpointing the town would "definitely point the finger at certain indivisuals."

The official of the group, which serves the states of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Arkansas, Nebraska and Wyoming, also refused to say how long the access code was used, how many persons knew of it and how much the calls cost the firm. He cited "secur-

"One of the most disturbing aspects of the situation is that so many people were involved and that the system was in use for a long period without anyone advising the company of its existence." said John Herdt, vice president of the Midwest

The weakness has been corrected, and Herdt said that after considering prosecution in the case, the company decided publicity regarding the use of the system would sufficiently advise customers that such an operation constitutes toll fraud. He said future incidents could result in prosecution.

Expensive to stay cool now

It's going to be much more costly to run your air conditioner this summer.

If you want to stay cool at a price you can afford, you'll have to maintain your airconditioning equipment and plan its use with much more care. Here are some pre-season steps air-conditioning engineers say you should take:

Cleaning your equipment can save plenty of energy money. With a central unit. disconnect the electricity at the fuse box and clean the outside condenser coils with a jet-spray garden hose. The coils are behind protective metal fins. Don't spray the fan or electric motor area. Dirty condenser coils waste a lot of cooling

Be sure to have a clean filter on the equipment that's inside your home. Dirty filters can waste plenty of energy. Check the fan belt to make sure it isn't too slack. If you can depress it an inch, it's okay. Any further would be too slack and would not provide enough fan push to move the cool air out. Get a contractor (under "air conditioning" in the yellow pages) to tighten the belt or do it yourself by pulling the fan wheel and rotor wheel farther apart. If the heat exchange tubes are dirty, have a contractor clean them.

Window air conditioners usually have dirty filters and condenser coils. This could add air-conditioning energy costs. If possible, unplug and take down your window unit. Clean the filter and vacuum the condenser coils (or wash them carefully). Check your owner's manual for instructions. Big. bulky units may have to be cleaned by a repair contractor (yellow pages) but it's worth it.

Mind your money

✓ If you have air ducts in the attic. they should be covered with three-or four-inch thick insulation wraps. The government also recommends six inches of insulation between the joists on the floor of your Windows let in a lot of solar heat. You can cut energy costs considerably by protecting windows from heavy sunlight. Trees, shrubs and awnings are effective, but costly. You can buy fine-mesh, aluminum shade screens the size of storm windows for around $7 or $8 (under "screens" in yellow pages) or you can apply a thin. sun-screen film, such as Scotch Tint, on the inside of regular windows or storm windows. It's highly effective but costs around $2 a square foot (material and professional installation). Venetian blinds are fairly effective, drapes less

Wherever possible, window air conditioners should be put on the shady side and away from any bushes or plants that could block air circulation.

When buying an air conditioner - central unit or window type — try to get one Efficiency Ratio) at the best price. EER is calculated by dividing the unit's cooling capacity (measured in BTUs) by its use of electricity (measured in watts). A unit that produces 30,000 BTUs and uses 4,000 watts would have an EER of 7.5. Another unit that produces 30,000 BTUs but has an EER of 8 or 9 would use less electricity

Contractors and dealers should have manufacturers' equipment directories that list BTU and watt ratings for various units. Contractors and dealers should also provide detailed work sheets to determine the amount of BTUs you'll need. A unit that is too big will waste energy and do a poor cooling job. It's better to err on the small side.

✓ Don't keep tinkering with the thermostat. Select the highest setting that's comfortable and leave it there. For every degree you raise the thermostat, you'll save three per cent on your energy. Moving from 73 to 76 would save nine per cent. It's not wise to move above 78 except on extremely hot days (to narrow the inside-outside heat gap; because your equipment will lose its vital dehumidifying effect. It's also not wise to turn the thermostat up when you leave for the day. Your equipment just works overtime when you return.

Q — How has the Pettis County Court budgeted its federal revenue sharing funds for 1974? - C.A.H.

A — In its 1974 budget, the Pettis County Court decided to spend $132,000 of the anticipated $150,600 in federal revenue sharing funds it will receive this year to finance the operations of the Pettis County sheriff and fire departments. In effect, this money is being used to balance the budget. In past year, the operational expenses of these departments have been paid out of general revenue.

A total of $10,000 of the remaining $18,600 was placed in the "miscellaneous" account of the county's general revenue fund. The rest was combined with about $15,000 left over from 1973 and will be spent for previous commitments, such as enactment of a solid waste disposal system.

Last year the county spent $20,000 in federal revenue sharing money to put a new roof on the courthouse, $8,500 for improvements to the Buena Vista Nursing Home and about $75,000 on county roads. The court also is financing the $144,500 cost of re-evluating county property through federal revenue sharing funds.

Q - I am writing to you in regard to a new Futura Singer sewing machine. We bought this machine Feb. 9, 1974. That same afternoon, I called the manager and told him it was leaking oil. It isn't supposed to have oil. He said it would soon go away. We took this machine back on Feb. 14. It makes a terrible noise. It sounds like an old car with the rod going out. He said there was nothing he could do about it. He told my husband that he could sue him, but he didn't know whether it would do any good or not

I have written to the Better Business Bureau in Kansas City. They sent me forms and I filled them out. I got a letter March 15 saying it would be taken care of immediately. To this day, nothing has been done. — Mrs. M. W.J.

A - A spokesman for the Kansas City Better Business Bureau informed Hot Line that a letter was sent to the Sedalia Singer store March 18 informing them of your complaint and requesting that they respond to the BBB in regards to it. He indicated Wednesday that no reply from the firm has yet been received. If no response is received within 30 days, he said, a follow-up letter will be sent in which store officials will be given two weeks to respond.

If no response is forthcoming by then, an official notification of the complaint and the firm's failure to respond to BBB inquiries is listed in the BBB report on the firm. If the BBB fails to secure a satisfactory response, the spokesman advised you to contact the consumer protection division of the state attorney general's office in Jefferson

The spokesman added that the BBB "cannot force companies to do anything. We can only encourage them and indicate to them the consequences of their failure to respond to our inquiries."

Q — What is the official name of the junior college? It's been called Sedalia College and State Fair Community College. Lately it's been called the Sedalia Junior College District. Why, if it's a Benton and Pettis Counties district? —

A - William Hopkins, president of State Fair Community College's board of trustees, indicated the name of the college and the name of the college district are two different things. Hopkins said the name of the district is the Junior College District of Sedalia, Mo., and added that name was on petitions and the ballot to establish the district in 1966. The reason the name State Fair Community College was selected by the board was to pinpoint the college geographically in the state. Perhaps not one person out of 1,000 could immediately tell where Jefferson, Three Rivers or Mineral Area junior colleges are located. The name State Fair Community College immediately denotes the specific locality of the college," Hopkins said. He added that a name such as Benton-Pettis County junior college was rejected since other counties could become part of the district at some time in the future.

Fred Davis, SFCC president, told Hot Line that the colleges Hopkins mentioned all have district names involving particular cities. He said state laws require districts be named in such a way as to specify a location. He mentioned that Three Rivers Junior College was formally known as the Junior College District of Poplar Bluff, Mo., and that Crowder College, is legally, the Junior College District of Neosho, Mo.

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - The outcry against those big oil company profits illustrates the public doubts about the established ethics and goals of business and the slow, frustrating search for something new.

Isn't it the goal of business to make money? Every last nickel it can earn within the law? Until the game rules are changed it can be argued that to do so is the responsibility of corporate officers to shareholders.

But off and on for the past few decades the country has showed little faith in that philosophy. During the past weekend Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent said:

"If everyone rushes to grab every fast nickel, the inflation fires will be ignited anew and there will be a certain and volatile reaction from Congress and the people.

Dent was referring to the removal of Phase 4 price restraints April 30, but neither he nor anyone else has declared what should be the new criterion of corporate performance. If not profits, what?

One of the problems, it seems, is bigness itself. Anothmake money for stockholders in regard to ecology and fair er is shortages.

Bigness has long been feared in the United States because of the dangers of monopoly. But is it possible for small companies compete internationally with the European and Japanese giants? Unlikely

Is it fair for a company to profit from shortages? The old supply-demand law is that prices rise when demand exceeds supply. But can it apply in an age of pervasive and critical shortages?

A curious, shortage-related problem involves the dichotomy of thought that must be assumed by some corporate officers, such as in oil companies and utilities, in telling customers not to buy their product. If it isn't the duty of a company to sell as much as it can and make as much profit as it can, then what is its duty? The need for an answer is pressing; forthcoming, it would relieve much confusion. Various businessmen, government officials, academecians

NEW YORK (AP) - "Something's really got to hit us. says Kenneth Waissman.

"It has to be an irresistible urge," amends Maxine Fox.

And that's as close as you can get to how the young marrieds from Baltimore have become Broadway's hottest producer tandem.

Since setting up shop five years ago, the pair sired four successes in a row. Currently they dominate the impresario ranks as operators of "Grease." the longest running musical around, and "Over Here!," a prime song-anddance contender for this season's award honors.

Both these crowd-pleasers traffic heavily in nostalgia, the first for the rock 'n' roll 1950's and the other for the big band era of World War II. Waissman says this "is just an accident. we're not going to restrict our opportunities.

Miss Fox got to New York first, at 18, moving through a series of showbiz jobs that included apprentice experience on a pretty impressive streak of shows — Barbra Streisand's gofer in "Funny Girl," "Sweet Charity" and "Mame." Then she went on the road as a manager of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown.'

Waissman, meanwhile, had gotten his master's degree at New York University and had gone off for a couple of years to make Peace Corps films to be shown in South America. His first stage job was in an office where Miss Fox had previously worked.

Veterans' organizations say they are thriving despite Vietnam

By KAY BARTLETT AP Newsfeatures Writer

OSKALOOSA, Iowa (AP) -Nat King Cole croons "Ramblin' Rose" on the juke box. Ten men are seated at the bar at 4 o'clock on a Thursday afternoon. Six salt shakers on the 13-stool bar testify that this is primarily a beer-drinker's palace - a healthy pitcher of which goes for a buck.

A mural of America's fighting men serves as the bar's backdrop, testimony that this is the American Legion in Oska-

Largest of the veterans' associations, with 2.7 million members, the American Legion is alive and well in middle America. Its lobbyists in Washington and in state capitals across the land say they've got more political clout than ever.

The national commander says increasing numbers of Vietnam veterans are joining up and that Legion-supported baseball teams, oratorical contests and Scout troops are still American institutions. And they hope they'll even get Veteran's Day changed back to Nov. 11.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, second largest of the vets' groups, with 1.8 million members, reports an even rosier picture in 1974, the year after soldiers came home from an unpopular war to face disapproval at worst, a White House reception at best and a ho-hum greeting from their countrymen in general.

In the years after World War II, the Legion hit its all-time high of 3.3 million members in 1946. The VFW climbed from a prewar 100,000 to over a million in the middle '40s

VFW membership is growing faster now than the Legion's. The VFW says it increased its roles by 28,000 in 1973. Legion membership, for the first time in almost a decade, declined in 1973: a drop of 18,000 because deaths of older legionnaires exceeded new membship.

There's an American Legion or a VFW post to serve everyone. One in New York is composed of advertising men; there's a post of FBI agents in Washington, a post of telephone workers, and a post whose main attraction is an annual rodeo. In some communities, the hall is a dingy, smoke-filled room. In others it's more or less a country club.

Even in a state like Iowa, strong for both organizations. it's hard to figure out what 'average' is

Gordon Miller, Iowa Legion commander, ponders the ques-

"Average?" asks Miller. "That's hard to say. I mean if you put one foot in a bucket of cold water and the other in a bucket of hot water, well, I guess you might say your rear end is about average.

The Legion post in Oskaloosa. for instance, opens every afternoon at 3 and the regulars drop by. M. L. Curry, a 52-year-old World War II vet, comes just about every afternoon.

Why? "They've got a good

Worn with pride

Norman Freese, Veterans of Foreign Wars state commander in Iowa, settles his VFW cap on his head with care. "That's one of the greatest moments of your life when you're sworn in as state commander,"

we are the largest group representing the Vietnam vet. We represent his sentiments and his position. They still think it's great we sent over 55,000 people there to die," says Brian Adams, a national officer of the VVAW, which claims a membership of 25,000.

There's no profile of the Vietnam vet who has joined the Legion, but Miller maintains he's more conservative than his World War II counterpart. "They tend to side with the World WAR I guys," he said

Phillips, a candidate for the state legislature in Colorado and a young man whose language must be laundered before being quoted, feels that far too many Vietnam vets don't realize that the Legion and the VFW are out there to help

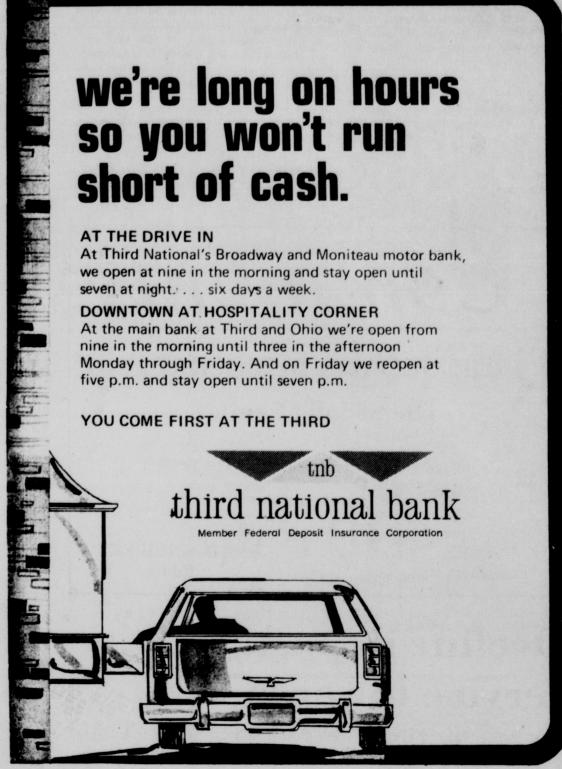

"They're confused about the war and the way the Vietnam vets are acting, but they're really not as big as flagwavers as they come off. Their freedom days and their patriotism and their fishing derbys and all don't appeal to the Vietnam vet.

In Washington the Legion has three registered lobbyists and the VFW has one. Generally, as the GI's alumni organization. the two groups have pretty much the same views.

Both veterans' groups are against amnesty in any form. They favor bigger and better benefits for the vet and bigger defense budgets.

Ray Holdsworth, 27, is a Vietnam vet who joined the Oskaloosa post

"I thought it was a good organization and I served my time and I thought it was my right to join. The age group at first didn't appeal to me." says Holdsworth. "Everybody was so much older, but once I got to know the guys, that didn't make any difference.

And that's the grimmest irony of all, for Richard M. Nixon stands on the brink of ultimate disgrace for the simple reason that so many satchels of $100 bills were lavished upon him and his 1972 campaign that the purchase of corruption and criminality became commonplace.

Why, considering all our woes of Watergate, would so many people oppose the Senate bill - especially the proposal for financing presidential and congressional elections out of the treasury?

Remember that John Stuart Mill once.

said that "the despotism of custom is everywhere a standing hindrance to human advancement." It is custom that leads conservatives to say that the present system "has served us for almost 200 years" and they don't want to change it.

That's like saying this society got along pretty well for a century and a half exploiting child laborers, or without Social Security laws, so why change anything.

But I suppose the two most potent arguments against financing federal elections from public moneys are that: 1. It would legalize a raid on the treasury by politicians. 2. It would force Americans to contribute to the campaigns of people they don't support and might even despise.

As for the first point, our present system of financing elections is the biggest raid on the treasury — and on the pocketbooks of all Americans.

When a segment of the dairy industry gives a presidential candidate several hundred thousand bucks and gets dairy price supports changed so the dairy industry reaps millions in profits from higher prices, that is a real ripoff.

voluntarily finance George Wallace for President?

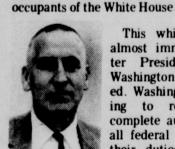

But the truth is that I wouldn't want Wallace to fail because of lack of funds (not that he has any trouble raising money). I would want him to be rejected because Americans oppose what he has stood for over the years.

I don't believe the public moneys we propose to put into the election process will cause the election of bad men who otherwise would not have had the finances to make a ripple

It is in our present system that bad men can extort $60 million out of corporations, unions, special interests, all of whom know that big-giving is the key to having a voice in Washington. Our present system is what ensures the rise to power of bad men.

People who want something approaching real democracy had better let the House and Mr. Nixon know that they want campaign reform - right now!

own responsibility - except for some military and foreign affairs and domestic

It is no wonder that presidents spend much of their time in foreign affairs, sometimes to the neglect of economic and domestic problems. For it is only in foreign and related military matters that presidents have held to their power and perhaps increased it. This tendency may account for the poor record of most recent presidents in dealing with the economy.

There has, over the years, been a parallel strengthening of the power of the Civil Service and the positions of senior Civil Service employes. The objective has been to prevent the corruption, inefficiencies and inequities of the spoils system. The result has been, in essence, to create a fourth branch of government, almost partly independent of the president and Congress. Department heads are, in considerable measure, prisoners of their permanent staffs. The man at the top ordinarily must work with what the permanent officials give him. Proposals they disagree with can take endless months to carry out, and in the process, can be so changed that the original purposes may be smothered. We thus have in essence a multitude of built-in "courts" throughout the executive, presided over by high-level Civil Service employes who act as judges; approving or censoring programs pushed by the president and his cabinet and voted by

By contrast, many Civil Service employes are on the job 20 to 30 years and more. The able ones, during that period, gain an encyclopedic knowledge of their areas and build loyalties and a priceless understanding of who can do what and who can't. This makes the difference between failure and success in many operations.

Not surprisingly, these men come to believe that no one understands their job and its objectives as they do and that outside interference only muddies the Last night's meeting of the city council was a disappointment. It had been heralded abroad by enemies of the administration that there would be a fight of the bitterest kind from start to finish. and it was claimed by one paper that blows would surely be exchanged by the so-called rival factions. On the contrary, the session was of less than an hour's duration ... and there was no excitement whatever.

The Watergate prosecutors are secretly bargaining for a guilty plea from the president of a $100 million-a-year milk cooperative, which unwittingly supplied "hush money" for the Watergate

The official is Richard Allison, who began as a candy clerk, worked his way through night school and is now the $55,000a-year president of the LeHigh Valley Cooperative Farmers of Allentown, Pa.

Proud of his accomplishments in building the co-op into a major American milk power, Allison wanted President Nixon as his speaker for the group's 1972 conference. LeHigh's Washington lobbyist, Frank Carroll, was called on to help with the arrangements, say sources close to the

The donation, which is illegal under federal law because corporate gifts are outlawed, was clandestinely passed to the President's campaign committee in two $25,000 bundles, one of them in a car, say our sources.

The $50,000 reportedly wound up in the slush fund from which "hush money" was drawn to buy the silence of the original Watergate conspirators. This, of course, set the prosecutors on LeHigh.

ALUMINUM HAZARDS: The moguls of aluminum have met secretly in their shiny New York headquarters to try to counter federal hearings this week on deaths and home-burnings caused by aluminum wiring.

At the meeting, officials from Kaiser, Reynolds, Southwire, Alcoa and others agreed that a "motherhood" package concealing the dangers of aluminum wiring was the best way to deal with the hearings of the Consumer Product Safety Commission in Los Angeles.

From inside sources, we have also learned that "the industry is frightened to death" that studies showing 400 recent fires from the wiring will lead to reinspection of all aluminum-wired homes. At least two million homes, each with

Editor's mail Happy with hospital

I was very distressed to see that one sad, frustrated individual felt it necessary to express their opinion as though it was a universal feeling of all nurses at Bothwell Hospital.

I for one have no intention whatsoever of going to the other hospital. If the staffing figures as published in your newspaper are correct, there is no way good patient care can be given.

I have worked at Bothwell Hospital for 15 years, and Sedalia should be very proud of her hospital. We have many of the finest doctors in the country. The nursing staff is equal to any you will find. The nurses are dedicated to good patient care, and to do this each person is treated as an individual. not just "a person in a bed."

Have the people who think this new hospital will mean so much to Sedalia stopped to consider that none of the profits will stay in Sedalia?

It is understandable why this person wanted to be anonymous. They know how wrong they were. I hope everyone who shares my feelings will stand up and be counted.

daur, Canadian Football League Commissioner has appealed to members of Parliament to ensure that the league is not damaged by the intrusion of American interests.

In a letter to all Parliament members dated April 10 and delivered Tuesday night. Gaudaur said that while the CFL is not opposed to World Football League franchise in Toronto, it is concerned about the possible effects on Canadian football.

The appeal came on the eve-likely late today or perhaps Thursday-of debate on a Cash not only starred at bat. but in the ninth inning he roamed to his right, fielded a smash by Ken Reitz and threw him out. He also was involved in two double plays.

'Sure I was proud of the play." Cash said. "I want to prove to people I can play all phases, both offense and defense. The key word is defense.

"I know what they were saying about me when I was traded," Cash observed. "He's all offense and no defense. That was totally untrue. I have the statistics to back me up.'

The deal that brought to Cash to the Phillies for Brett was controversial in Philadelphia. Brett had won 13 games last year, and indicated he would do better in 1974. The Phillies. however, had traded Denny Dole to California of the American League and needed a second baseman.

Cash was unhappy in Pittsburgh, where management told him they were going with Rennie Stennett at second base. He asked to be traded, and the Pirates, needing pitching help. obliged by sending him to Philadelphia.

"A big break for both of us." was Cash's reaction.

Poor fielding lifts Texas over Royals

ARLINGTON. Tex. (AP) -Texas Manager Billy Martin said his Rangers have been needing some luck, and Tuesday night it rained clover leaves courtesy of the Kansas City Royals.

With the score tied 2-2 in the bottom of the eighth inning of their American League game. pinch-hitter Jim Spencer lofted a twisting pop fly to right field. Rookie outfielder Al Cowens. starting his first game, called for the ball but second baseman Cookie Rojas never heard him. They collided and Spencer steamed to third.

Martin next called for Dave Nelson to bunt on a suicide squeeze play, but Nelson missed the pinch-runner Lenny Randle was an apparent dead duck. Royals catcher Fran Healy tried to nail Randle in a rundown but clipped him with a throw to third. Randle wheeled home and the Rangers were 3-2

"We got the kind of luck we now. He was getting that have been looking for." Martin- breaking pitch over. He has a said. "Nelson missed the suicide squeeze bunt but nothing works unless you try ... We forced them into something and we beat a good pitcher

Steve Busby, now 2-1 for the Royals, was the victim of the Kansas City fielding lapses.

Cowens said of the collision. You couldn't hear anything because the crowd was yelling. I was yelling for the ball. But Cookie couldn't hear me.

John Mayberry's homer and Cowens' RBI double for Kansas City offset a two-run homer by Texas' Jeff Burroughs going into the eighth. Steve Foucault picked up the victory in relief after David Clyde pitched an impressive seven and two-thirds innings.

Martin, looking for a fourth starter, said, "David is on his way. He has a lot of confidence lot of poise. I hated to take him out but I could see he was tired.

The victory put the Rangers at the .500 mark for the first time this year

With a little luck we could have won five more games." Martin said. "We got our share tonight.

He said Clyde won't pitch again for about 10 days because of open dates in the schedule.

'We'll get to use Jim Bibby and Ferguson Jenkins a lot. Martin smiled. "Things are looking up for this club. They'll scrap you. The rest of the American League is going to find that out.

Tonight Bibby, 2-1, will go against Kansas City's Nelson Briles, making his American League debut after spending the last two seasons at Pittsburgh in the National League.

Knicks fall two back of Celts

Coach Tom Heinsohn gambled

New York Coach Red Holzman took a chance and lost.

And because of those two decisions, the Celtics beat the Knicks 111-99 Tuesday night and took a commanding 2-0 lead in their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference best-of-seven final series, which continues in Boston Friday night.

In the only other pro basketball action Tuesday night the Milwaukee Bucks whipped the Chicago Bulls 101-85 in game one of the NBA Western Conference finals.

The moves by Heinsohn and Holzman both came in the decisive third period, when the Celtics turned a 60-53 halftime deficit into an 86-74 lead, outscoring New York 33-14.

Heinsohn took his calculated risk with 3:10 remaining in the quarter when his superstar and captain, John Havlicek, incurred his fifth personal foul.

run early in the period, including 10 consecutive points, were leading 78-72 when Havlicek charged into Dean Meminger for his fifth foul.

But instead of taking him out and having him available for the usually vital fourth quarter. Heinsohn left him in the game.

"I kept him in because that's where the game was going to be won or lost," explained Heinsohn. "If I take him out, it's like he committed his sixth personal

The decision paid off. Havlicek, who had fired in a remarkable 19 points in the first period-only three short of the NBA playoff record of 22-hitting his last seven shots for Boston's final 14 points of the quarter, didn't draw another foul. He played the rest of the way and wound up as the game's high scorer with 27 points.

Don Nelson chipped in with 23 points and 10 rebounds for the Celtics, Jo Jo White contributed 22 points and Cowens had 15 points and a game-high 18 rebounds. Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 21 points, one more than Bill Bradley Bucks forward Bob Dandridge matched teammate Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 25 points Tuesday night.

Dandridge sank 11 of 16 shots, added 10 rebounds and four assists and helped hold Chicago's Bob Love to 14 points, eight below his average. Dandridge poured in 14 points in the third period when the Bucks outscored the Bulls 32-21 to open a 20-point lead in the nationally televised contest.

Overbidders must play well

By Oswald & James Jacoby

As we have said many times, "If you want to overbid you should learn to play the dummy well."

South's jump to four spades was a slight overbid. It should have been apparent to him that the ace of clubs would be right in back of his

Still South should have made his contract barring a really impossible defense. That impossible defense would start with West leading his eight of hearts. East would win and return a club. West would take two clubtricks and lead a third club. East would ruff with the 10 of trumps and there would be no way for South to avoid the loss of a trump.

West did open the ace of hearts and continue. South ruffed and indulged in the luxury of playing his ace of spades. Then he led a diamond to dummy's king; a second diamond back to his ace and a third diamond to be ruffed low in dummy. Then he cashed dummy's king of trumps and led a club. East played the nine. South's king lost to the ace and West led back a low club to East's jack. East played a third heart and the hand collapsed. South had three lines of play to make the hand. The simple one was to leave trumps entirely alone until after three rounds of dia-monds. The other two are quite complicated. We will explain them to any reader who sends us a stamped addressed envelope.
